SAMPLE WORKSHOPS

AGRICULTURAL SCIENCE IN A GLOBAL CONTEXT

Explore the science of agriculture and find new ways to improve its management with cutting-edge innovation, techniques, and policy. Workshops include professional visits to prominent research centers at Michigan State University and beyond, as well as farms, nurseries, and laboratories, in order to gain a thorough education on topics like animal science, food quality, and food safety. These experiences are complemented with expert lectures on innovation, law, and research practices.

AGRICULTURE EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT

Receive hands-on agriculture emergency management training from one of the world's premier agricultural research universities. Workshop participants learn about specific risks, preparation resources, and innovative emergency responses. Guided tours of relevant agricultural sites, research stations, and agri-business plants allow participants to experience emergency preparedness and strategies first-hand, with the goal of protecting people, property, and environments.
